Five of the best places to get a sandwich in Glasgow.

Cherry & Heather

Where: 7 North Gower Street, Glasgow G51 1PW Scotland

A small takeaway, but its tries to use locally produced, seasonal ingredients – although never just for the sake of it. Its bread is made locally, the meat is Scottish and the veg is mostly sourced from nearby too.

Trip Advisor rating: 4.5

Review: "Quick stop in for lunch. Really varied selection of hot and cold food. Sandwiches were outrageously good, fresh, and incredibly tasty."

Rawlings – Love to Eat

Where: 583 Mossspark Boulevard, Glasgow G52 1SB Scotland

Modern family-run Scottish cafe and bistro offering artisan baking and treats.

Trip Advisor Rating: 5

Review: “The soup and sandwich combo are fabulous value you for money and a really big portion. The homemade cakes are to die for. Great friendly service every time. We'll be back soon hopefully!”

Soup's On and the Cake Lady

Where: 115 Clarkston Road, Glasgow G44 3BL Scotland

A friendly and laid-back local cafe that specialises in hearty home cooking and good old-fashioned home baking. Brunch, lunch, soups, stews and sandwiches.

Trip Advisor Rating: 5

Review: “Great soup, great sandwich, great music. What you need on a wet Glasgow day! Give it a try! Cakes look superb too.”

Café Wander

Where: 110A West George Street, Glasgow G2 1QJ Scotland

Cheery independent cafe serving a simple breakfast and lunch menu, plus homemade burgers, and cakes.

Trip Advisor rating: 4.5

Review: “Excellent service with chatty staff. Delightful. Would recommend for a quick uncluttered sandwich at lunchtime.”

North Star Cafe

Where: 108 Queen Margaret Drive, Glasgow G20 8NZ Scotland

Coffee, cake, breakfast, lunch and brunch. Seven days a week. Established 1999.

Trip Advisor Rating: 4.5

Review: “There is clearly love and attention paid to this place and its food. My girlfriend can't stop raving about her soup and sandwich, and the roast vegetable salad I had was simply mouth-watering.”
