Cherry & Heather

Where: 7 North Gower Street, Glasgow G51 1PW Scotland

A small takeaway, but it tries to use locally produced, seasonal ingredients – although never just for the sake of it. Its bread is made locally, the meat is Scottish and the veg is mostly sourced from nearby too.

Trip Advisor rating: 4.5

Review: "Quick stop in for lunch. Really varied selection of hot and cold food. Sandwiches were outrageously good, fresh, and incredibly tasty".

Bon Tea Room

Where: 279A St. Johns Road, Edinburgh EH12 7XF Scotland

Highly regarded tearoom with delicious sandwiches.

Trip Advisor Rating: 5

Review: “We had afternoon tea and everything from the sandwich’s to scones to the little cakes at the top was so fresh and so tasty! All the hot drinks were also so so nice creamy and frothy! Definitely recommend!! Can’t wait to be back!!”

Honeycomb Tearoom

Where: 129 Morrison Street, Edinburgh EH3 8AJ Scotland

A modern cafe eatery in Edinburgh serving coffee, cakes, lunch, brunch, and breakfast with plates bursting with flavours.

Trip Advisor Rating: 4.5

Review: “Fantastic food and drinks, toasted sandwiches amazing with great ingredients. Pot of tea with loose tea leaves and great coffee. Well recommended.”

Polentoni

Where: 38 Easter Road, Edinburgh EH7 5RG Scotland

Polentoni is a friendly neighbourhood Italian bakery offering sandwiches, pastries, coffee and more.

Trip Advisor rating: 5

Review: “Simple, delicious sandwiches of fresh crunchy bread; small, round, fluffy pizzas; cakes and pastries with price tags that make you wonder why everyone else is charging so much.”

Thirsty Pallet

Where: 15 Elm Row, Edinburgh EH7 4AA Scotland

A mother and son team run this friendly café and sandwich bar, offering cured meats and cheese, charcoal bread and homemade cakes.

Trip Advisor Rating: 5

Review: “You could construct your own sandwich from a choice of fillings and bread or choose from the menu. I opted for cheese, tuna, sweetcorn, and salad. It was packed with filling on really fresh baguette.”
